

Proposals for Acoustic Radio Assembling

Open Call

Now – 30. November 2020

The call for proposals is open to artists & musicians in experimental music, sound art, new radio concepts, performance, and sound installation fields, or any other acoustic related assemblies. We're looking for unusual ideas in order to combine the specific artistic possibilities of the radio with the potentials which are already embedded within the program of Radio 80000.

Among the contributed work, a curated selection will be presented throughout the regular program of Radio 80000, taking place in January 2020. In addition, and with possibilities for further exposure, the contributed proposals will become part of an archive open for future collaborations.

Nowadays the media ,radio' is marked by a disruptive technological change driven through digitalisation: Originally characterised by a unidirectional sender-receiver relationship, its current digital nature is based on a bidirectional server-client infrastructure and therefore opens up space for new opportunities. From this initial point onwards, we would like to fuse distinctive formats within the field of visual arts and music by embedding acoustic radio assembling into the digital media 'radio'. In order to create a non-linear and parasitic program that promotes a highly diverse and non-standardised attitude, regarding length, style, and context.

PARA is a non-label organisation which seeks for parasitic cohabitation with other organisms and structures. Focusing on the acoustic field as a point of departure, PARA wants to enable artistic productions beyond the common frame of publication.

Radio 80000 is a non-commercial online radio based in Munich and was founded in April 2015. It functions as a platform, promoting collaboration and cultural expression through music, sound, dialogue and events throughout Germany and abroad.

Send us your proposals, including a short text file describing your project, via WeTransfer. We are looking forward!
